

The Eight Million Divinities of Kyoto:
Introduction to Japanese Religions
KCJS Fall 2019
Course Syllabus

Instructor: Adam Lyons

Email: alyons4@gmail.com

Course Time: Tues./Thurs. 1:10-2:40

Location: KCJS classroom

Instructor Office Hour: After class and by appointment

Course Description and Goals

Kyoto is the ancient capital of Japan, and the city served as the center of Japanese culture and religion for more than a millennium. This introductory course offers a survey of Japanese religions by drawing on the resources of Kyoto and its surroundings. In addition to traditional reading assignments and classroom discussion, we will conduct multiple research expeditions to museums and significant religious and cultural sites in and around Kyoto.

The thesis of this class is that religious life of Kyoto is animated by tradition and transformation. Exploring this theme, the aim of the course is to challenge students to deepen their knowledge of Japanese religions and society and to strengthen their understanding of the connections between history and place, and religion and culture. Course units are arranged to address major religious traditions (Buddhism, Shinto, Christianity, and new religious movements), but we will cover a range of topics that should interest students from a wide variety of concentrations. Topics covered include media, economy, and modernism. There are no prerequisites for this course. Whenever possible, readings are paired with either visits to related religious sites or recommendations for exploring the city independently.

Are there really “eight million divinities of Kyoto?” What is the difference between a temple and a shrine? What is a matsuri? Do Japanese people really believe in kami and Buddhas? How many religions are there in Japan? How much money is there in Japanese religions? What do members of Japanese new religions believe? Do Japanese religions share a common worldview? If you take this class, we will explore the answers to these questions together in the most fun way possible—by stepping out into one of the most beautiful cities on earth to find the answers.

Format

The course will consist of two, ninety-minute meetings each week. In some weeks, there will also be an expedition to a museum or a site of interest. Students are expected to attend all meetings and excursions. This is not a lecture course. Class meetings are primarily discussion based, and each student is expected to lead discussion at least once. There is one longer outing that will take place on a weekend—a trip to Nara scheduled for our sixth week (Saturday, Oct. 13th).

Students who must be absent for any reason should contact the instructor in advance. Students are allowed one absence for a reason other than illness. Absences beyond those allowed will result in a grade penalty.

Course Requirements

Class Participation: This class is discussion and activity based. Students are expected to read the week's readings before the weekly meeting, to consider the discussion questions set out in this syllabus for each week, to participate vigorously in class discussion, and to participate constructively in all outings. As part of class participation, students will be expected to introduce and discuss readings. Each week I will ask for volunteers. Each student is expected to fulfill this duty at least twice (possibly more depending on enrollment). Please refer to the section below, An Academic Approach to Religion for guidelines regarding class discussion.
15 percent.

Response papers: Students will be required to prepare two 1-2 page response papers on the readings and/or a field trip. E.g., papers may take the form of a field trip journal, in which a student may include photos of and reflections about what was seen and learned in a given field site. Guidelines for the response papers are included below in Guidelines for Written Assignments. The grades given for the response papers will be $\sqrt{+}$ (7.5 points), $\sqrt{}$ (7 points), or $\sqrt{-}$ (6 points or less).
15 percent

Midterm Test: The format of the Midterm Test will be covered in class. The test will include a mixture of objective questions, such as identifying particular figures, sites, and quotations, defining key terms, and short essay questions. (See the questions for each week on the syllabus below—take note of the bold terms).
20 percent

Midterm paper: Students will prepare a 5-6 page paper on an assigned topic based on the assigned readings and outings. Please refer to the section below, Grading Rubrics for Written Assignments for the criteria on which papers will be assessed. The possible topics will be covered in class.
20 percent

Final Paper: Students will prepare a 10-12 page research paper on an assigned topic based on the assigned readings and outings. The final paper may be an expansion of the midterm paper. Please refer to the section below, Grading Rubrics for Written Assignments for the criteria on which papers will be assessed.
30 percent

Grading

The grading scale adopted in this course is as follows:

- A 95-100
- A- 90-94

B+	86-89
B	80-85
B-	75-79
C+	70-74
C	65-69
C-	60-64
D	55-59

Accessibility Issues

Any student needing academic adjustments or accommodations is requested to present his or her letter from the Accessible Education Office (AEO) and speak with the professor by the end of the second week of the term. Failure to do so may result in the Course Head's inability to respond in a timely manner. All discussions will remain confidential, although AEO may be consulted to discuss appropriate implementation.

Course Policies

You will find course policies on “An Academic Approach to Religion,” attendance, late papers, re-submissions, creative assignments, the Honor Code, and others in later sections of this syllabus. Please read the whole syllabus carefully before deciding whether or not to enroll in this course.

Course Schedule

Week 1 Course Introductions

No Reading this week.

Week 2 The Transmission of Buddhism to Japan

Chapter 3 “Prince Shotoku and his Constitution” and chapter 5 “Nara Buddhism” and in De Bary, et al, ed. Sources of Japanese Tradition Volume One: From Earliest Times to 1600. 2nd edition. New York: Columbia UP, 2001.

 Como, Michael I. Shōtoku: ethnicity, ritual, and violence in the Japanese Buddhist tradition. New York: Oxford University Press, 2006. Read Chapter 1: "Ethnicity and the Founding Legend of Japanese Buddhism" (pdf).

Recommended:

Hall, John Whitney, ed. "The Asuka Enlightenment." In The Cambridge History of Japan. Cambridge University, 1988.
 Sango, Asuka. in The Halo of Golden Light: Imperial Authority and Buddhist Ritual in Heian Japan. University of Hawai'i Press, 2015. Read "The Emperor and the Golden Light Sutra" (pdf).

Discussion:

- 1.) How was Buddhism transmitted to Japan?
- 2.) Who was Prince Shōtoku and what was the Shōtoku Constitution?
- 3.) What was the Sutra of Golden Light, and why was it important to the ruling elite?
- 4.) What is the significance of the Parable of the Burning House in the Lotus Sutra?
- 5.) How did Emperor Shōmu support Buddhism?
- 6.) Who was Gyōgi and how did he become famous?

Week 3 Heian Buddhism

Read "Mahayana Universalism," chapter 6 "Saichō and Mt. Hie," and chapter 7 "Kūkai and esoteric Buddhism" in De Bary, et al, ed. Sources of Japanese Tradition Volume One: From Earliest Times to 1600. 2nd edition. New York: Columbia UP, 2001. (Read p. 123-175).

Recommended:

Abe, Ryūichi. The Weaving of Mantra: Kūkai and the Construction of Esoteric Buddhist Discourse. New York: Columbia University Press, 1999.
 Lowe, Bryan D. "The Discipline of Writing: Scribes and Purity in Eighth-Century Japan." Japanese Journal of Religious Studies 39.2 (2012): 201-39.

Discussion:

- 1.) What is Mahayana Buddhism? What is universal about it?
- 2.) What is the most important sutra for Saichō?
- 3.) What did Saichō hope to accomplish when he established his own monastery on Mt. Hiei?
- 4.) What is Tendai?
- 5.) Kūkai's Buddhism is described as esoteric. What does that mean, and what is the esoteric practice? What is Shingon?
- 6.) What was the relationship between Kūkai and Saichō? How did they both learn about Buddhism?

Week 4 Medieval Buddhist Reformers

Read intro to part 3 “Despair, Deliverance and Destiny,” chapter 10 “Amida and the Pure Land,” chapter 13 “The Sun and the Lotus,” and chapter 14 “Zen Buddhism” in De Bary, et al, ed. Sources of Japanese Tradition Volume One: From Earliest Times to 1600. 2nd edition. New York: Columbia UP, 2001.

Recommended:

- Dobbins, James. Jodo Shinshu: Shin Buddhism in Medieval Japan. Bloomington, Illinois: Indiana University Press, 1989. Chapter 1 and Conclusion.
- Dobbins, James C., and Eshin-ni. Letters of the Nun Eshinni: Images of Pure Land Buddhism in Medieval Japan. Honolulu: U of Hawai'i, 2004.
- Heine, Steven, ed. Dōgen: Textual and Historical Studies. Oxford University Press, 2012.
- Kitagawa, Zenchō, and Jacqueline Stone. "The Words of the "Lotus Sutra" in Nichiren's Thought." Japanese Journal of Religious Studies 41.1, 2014: 25-43.
- Shinran, and Dennis Hirota. The Collected Works of Shinran. Kyoto, Japan: Jōdo shinshū Hongwanji-ha, 1997. Excerpts.
- Stone, Jacqueline. “Medieval Tendai "Hongaku" Thought and the New Kamakura Buddhism: A Reconsideration.” in Japanese Journal of Religious Studies, 22(1), 1995. pp. 17–48.
- Stone, Jacqueline. "The Atsuhara Affair: The "Lotus Sutra", Persecution, and Religious Identity in the Early Nichiren Tradition." Japanese Journal of Religious Studies 41.1, 2014: 153-89.
- Yampolsky, Philip B. Selected Writings of Nichiren. New York: Columbia UP, 1990. Excerpts.

Discussion:

- 1.) What was the relationship between Hōnen and Shinran?
- 2.) What did Hōnen teach about the nature of salvation? What about Shinran?
- 3.) What is Amida?
- 4.) According to Dōgen, how can a human being achieve enlightenment?
- 5.) According to Nichiren, what is the significance of the Lotus Sutra?
- 6.) Do you think Dōgen and Nichiren are similar thinkers or no? Why?
- 7.) Can you detect common themes in the thought of these Kamakura period Buddhist reformers?

Week 5 Ancient Shinto

Read “Ancient Shinto” and “Kami in Myth” In Hardacre, Helen. Shinto: A History, New York: Oxford UP, 2017.

Recommended:

- Bock, Felicia. 1990. “The Enthronement Rites: The Text of Engishiki, 927.” Monumenta Nipponica. 45/3: 307-333.
- Ebersole, Gary L. 1999. “Tama Belief and Practice in Ancient Japan.” In Religions of Japan in Practice. Edited by George Tanabe. Princeton: Princeton University Press, pp. 141-152.

Philippi, Donald L. 1968. Book I. In Kojiki. Translated with an Introduction and Notes. Tokyo: University of Tokyo Press, pp. 37-159, and related notes.

Piggott, Joan. 1997. "Great Kings and Ritsuryo Law." In The Emergence of Japanese Kingship. Stanford: Stanford University Press, pp. 167-235.

For background, read the following in Sources of Japanese Tradition (optional):

"The Earliest Records of Japan," "Early Shinto," and "Chinese Thought and Institutions in Early Japan" in De Bary, et al, ed. Sources of Japanese Tradition Volume One: From Earliest Times to 1600. 2nd edition. New York: Columbia UP, 2001.

Discussion:

- 1.) How would you characterize the relationship between Japanese and Chinese culture in the ancient period? Think about the ritsuryō system.
- 2.) Who was Himiko? How do we know about her?
- 3.) What are kami? In the ancient period, how were kami understood?
- 4.) What was the jingikan?
- 5.) What is the myth of Izanagi and Izanami?
- 6.) What are the Kojiki and the Nihon Shoki? Why were these texts commissioned? How are they different?
- 7.) Are these texts compilations of myth or history?

Week 6 Kami and Buddhas in Medieval Japan

Read chapter 15 "Shintō in Medieval Japan" in De Bary, et al, ed. Sources of Japanese Tradition Volume One: From Earliest Times to 1600. 2nd edition. New York: Columbia UP, 2001.

Read "The Esotericization of Medieval Shinto." In Hardacre, Helen. In Shinto: A History, New York: Oxford UP, 2017.

Recommended

Teeuwen, Mark and van der Veere, Hendrik, translators. 1998. Nakatomi Harae

Kunge: Purification and Enlightenment in Late-Heian Japan. Buddhismus-Studien.

Discussion

- 1.) What was the relationship between Buddhism and kami in medieval Japan? Consider the honji suijaku paradigm.
- 2.) What was the significance of the concept of shinkoku ("the land of the gods") in medieval Japan?
- 3.) Who was Kitabatake Chikafusa, and how did he conceive of the imperial house?
- 4.) What was Ryōbu Shinto? What about Watarai Shintō?
- 5.) What is Shūgendō and how is it related to Shintō and Buddhism?
- 6.) Yoshida Kanetomo argued that "Buddhism is the fruit, Confucianism is the leaves, and Shinto is the trunk and the roots." (In de Bary et al, ed. p. 355). What does he mean?

Week 7 Making Modern Shinto

Read "Shinto and the Meiji State" In Hardacre, Helen. In Shinto: A History, New York: Oxford UP, 2017.

Recommended:

- Breen, John. "Resurrecting the Sacred Land of Japan: The State of Shinto in the Twenty-first Century." Japanese Journal of Religious Studies 37/2 (2010): pp. 295–315.

- Takenaka, Akiko. Yasukuni Shrine: History, Memory, and Japan's Unending Postwar. University of Hawai'i Press, 2015.

Discussion

- 1.) Why did the Meiji regime separate the Buddhas from the Kami (shinbutsu bunri)?
- 2.) How did haibutsu kishaku impact Japanese Buddhism?

- 3.) What was the Great Promulgation Campaign (taikyō senpu undō)? What doctrine did the campaign teach?
- 3.) What was State Shinto (kokka shintō)? What about the ideal of the kokutai?
- 4.) What is the difference between Shrine Shintō (jinja shintō) and sectarian Shintō (kyōha shintō)?

Week 8 Christianity in Japan

Mullins, Mark R. Christianity Made in Japan: A Study of Indigenous Movements. Honolulu: University of Hawaii Press, 1998. Read Chapters 2, 4, and 7.

Recommended:

- Howes, John F. "Christian Prophecy in Japan: Uchimura Kanzō." Japanese Journal of Religious Studies 34.1 (2007): pp. 127-50.

- Paramore, Kiri. Ideology and Christianity in Japan. London; New York, Routledge, 2009.

Discussion

- 1.) What is the United Church of Christ in Japan (Nihon Kirisuto Kyōdan) and how was it started?
- 2.) How does the history of Dōshisha reflect the role played by Christianity in Japan?
- 3.) Who was Uchimura Kanzō? What was his Non-church movement (Mukyōkai)?
- 4.) Christian theology poses a problem for traditional rites of ancestor worship that are deeply ingrained in popular culture. What is the nature of the problem, and how do some Japanese Christians get around it?

Week 9 New Religions: Ōmotokyō and Charismatic Leadership

- Stalker, Nancy K. Prophet Motive: Deguchi Onisaburō, Oomoto, and the Rise of New Religions in Imperial Japan. Honolulu: U of Hawai'i, 2008. Read "introduction" pp. 1-20 and chapter 3 "Taishō Spiritualism" pp. 76-107
- Garon, Sheldon M. "State and Religion in Imperial Japan, 1912-1945." Journal of Japanese Studies, vol. 12, no. 2, 1986, pp. 273-302.

Recommended:

- Staemmler, Birgit, and Ulrich M. Dehn. Establishing the Revolutionary: an Introduction to New Religions in Japan. Lit, 2011.

Discussion

- 1.) Stalker describes the leader of Ōmoto as a charismatic figure. What is “charisma” and what does it have to do with leading a religious organization?
- 2.) Who was Deguchi Nao? What was her relationship to Deguchi Onisaburō?
- 3.) What was chinkon kishin?
- 4.) Do you think that most people who joined Ōmoto did so primarily because they believed the doctrine to be true or primarily for other reasons?
- 5.) What was the Peace Preservation Law (chian ijihō) and why was Ōmoto suppressed? (See Garon).

Week 10 New Religions: Material Salvation

Hardacre, Helen. Kurozumikyō and the New Religions of Japan. Princeton, N.J.: Princeton UP, 1986. Print. Chapter 1.

Hardacre, Helen. “Shinto and Revelation.” In Shinto: A History, New York: Oxford UP, 2017.

“New Religious Movements” in De Bary, Gluck, Carol, and Tiedemann, Arthur E. Sources of Japanese Tradition. Vol. 2: 1600 to 2000. 2nd ed. New York ;: Columbia UP, 2005.

Discussion

- 1.) What are some examples of Japanese new religions? What characteristics do Japanese new religions share with each other? Do they share any components with other religions you might know?
- 2.) How would you characterize the significance of the term kokoro in contemporary Japanese religious life?
- 3.) What is the value of doing fieldwork with religious groups? What problems might arise for an anthropologist working with a religious group?
- 4.) Who was Kurozumi Munetada and what did he teach?
- 5.) Review the Tenrikyō and Nakayama Miki materials in the Sources of Japanese Tradition book. Do Tenrikyō’s teachings appear to fit the worldview model presented by Hardacre? Why or why not?
- 6.) What is a revelation? In these readings, who experiences revelations and who is receptive to the revealed teachings?

Week 11 Aum Shinrikyō and the Media

Hardacre, Helen. “Aum Shinrikyō and the Japanese Media: The Pied Piper Meets the Lamb of God.” History of Religions, vol. 47, no. 2, 2007, pp. 171–204.

and After the Aum Shinrikyō Affair Tells Us About the Persistent "Otherness" of New Religions in Japan." Japanese Journal of Religious Studies 39.1 (2012): 51-75.

Reader, Ian. Religious Violence in Contemporary Japan: the Case of Aum Shinrikyō. Richmond: Curzon, 2000.

Discussion

- 1.) Why would successful people from elite universities want to join a religious group like Aum Shinrikyō?
- 2.) Does Aum Shinrikyō reflect tensions that were inherent in 1990s Japanese society? How should such a movement be interpreted in relation to the culture that generated it?
- 3.) What was the concept of poa in the Aum teaching and how does it relate to the sarin gas attack?
- 4.) If you had a friend who wanted to join a group with doctrinal and structural similarities to Aum, what would you say to them?
- 5.) Who bears responsibility for the crimes committed by Aum Shinrikyō? The blind guru Asahara Shōkō (who used words only)? His followers who took action?

Week 12 Religion and Economy.

Read "Shrine Festivals and their Changing Place in the Public Sphere." In Hardacre, Helen. Shinto: A History, New York: Oxford UP, 2017.

Reader, Ian, and Tanabe, George. Practically Religious: Worldly Benefits and the Common Religion of Japan. Honolulu: U of Hawai'i, 1998. Chapters 1 and 3.

Rowe, Mark. Bonds of the Dead: Temples, Burial, and the Transformation of Contemporary Japanese Buddhism. University of Chicago Press, 2011.

Discussion

- 1.) What is a matsuri? What are its characteristics? Are matsuri solemn affairs or carnivalesque or both?
- 2.) Is it possible to have religious practices without beliefs?
- 3.) Are there any "practically religious" features of American culture that resemble the Japanese conventions discussed in the reading?
- 4.) What does capitalism have to do with contemporary expressions of Japanese religion discussed in the reading?
- 5.) Why do some people want to spend money on omamori amulets if they themselves claim not to believe in the magic?

- 6.) How is the discussion about abortion different in Japan and the U.S.? Does religion contribute to similarities or differences in the thinking about abortion in these two cultures?

Week 13 Religion and Popular Culture

- Napier, Susan Jolliffe. "Matter Out of Place: Carnival, Containment, and Cultural Recovery in Miyazaki's Spirited Away." The Journal of Japanese Studies, vol. 32, no. 2, 2006, pp. 287-310.
- Thomas, Jolyon. 2012. "Chapter 3: Entertaining Religious Ideas" In Drawing on Tradition: Manga, Anime, and Religion in Contemporary Japan. University of Hawaii Press, pp. 1-34 and pp. 103-124.

Recommended:

- Napier, Susan. "An Anorexic in Miyazaki's Land of Cockaigne: Excess and Abnegation in Miyazaki's Spirited Away." In Stalker, Nancy ed., Devouring Japan, Chapter 16. Oxford University Press, 2018.
- Thomas, Jolyon. 2012. "Chapter 1: Visualizing Religion" In Drawing on Tradition: Manga, Anime, and Religion in Contemporary Japan. University of Hawaii Press, pp. 35-56.

Discussion

- 1.) Miyazaki Hayao has repeatedly stated that his films have nothing to do with religion; what understanding of religion does this stance come from, so far as you can tell from what you have read and seen so far?
- 2.) What is the message conveyed by Princess Mononoke, and how does it relate to religion in your opinion, whatever the author's view? What about Spirited Away?
- 3.) Many commentators on Miyazaki's films have pointed out that they do not invoke notions of absolute good and evil. From your own perspective, does either film have a moral stance? If so, what is it?
- 4.) Debate the following proposition: since contemporary Shinto claims to have no doctrines or sacred texts, contemporary creators of popular culture have unlimited scope to take related images and develop them without restriction or fear of contradiction.
- 5.) What does the concept of carnival have to do with Spirited Away?

Week 14 Submit Final Essay

Course Policies

Attendance

Attendance will be required and recorded at all lectures and discussion sections. Students are allowed one absence without an excuse during the term. Any further absence must be cleared with the student's instructor in advance, and/or accompanied by an explanatory note from student health services. Other excused absences could include a death in the family. Absence to attend an extra-curricular activity will not be recognized as excused. Students anticipating any unavoidable absence should consult with their instructor as soon as possible. For every unexcused absence, one point will be deducted from your final grade.

Late Papers

Students unable to complete an assignment by the due date should consult their instructor as early as possible to discuss an extension. Extensions are not normally granted for reason of work due in other courses or extra-curricular activities, but may be granted for reasons of illness or a death in the family. Any extension granted must be confirmed by email from the instructor. In no case will an extension of more than one week be granted. Students submitting written assignments late without an extension are penalized at the rate of one grade per day of lateness.

Resubmissions

Students may elect to rewrite one paper during the semester if the outcome on the first attempt has been unsatisfactory. A resubmission requires advance permission from the instructor and will be due no later than one week after the original due date.

The Honor Code

This course expects students to be aware of the Honor Code (set out in the next paragraph) and to commit to its principles. In our course, it is encouraged that students would collaborate in various aspects of study, such as discussing readings with fellow students, or participating in a collaborative or creative assignment. However, the written assignments, the midterm and final examinations should be composed individually. While it is fine to discuss the issues with others, once you begin to write, compose your essays on your own. The writing you submit should represent your own, original work.

Members of the University community commit themselves to producing academic work of integrity – that is, work that adheres to the scholarly and intellectual standards of accurate attribution of sources, appropriate collection and use of data, and transparent acknowledgement of the contribution of others to their ideas, discoveries, interpretations, and conclusions. Cheating on exams or problem sets, plagiarizing or misrepresenting the ideas or language of someone else as one's own, falsifying data, or any other instance of academic dishonesty violates the standards of our community, as well as the standards of the wider world of learning and affairs.

An Academic Approach to Religion

This course adopts a neutral, socio-cultural approach to religion, without endorsing, condemning, or otherwise evaluating the beliefs and practices of any particular religion as true or false. The course does not seek to influence or challenge students' personal stances regarding religion, their beliefs, or decisions not to believe. The fact that the course presents religious material for students' consideration does not mean that the university, the instructor, or the teaching staff recommends, endorses, or condemns any of the beliefs or practices portrayed in these cultural productions.

Setting the Tone for Discussion

Students are expected to inquire deeply into the social and religious basis of beliefs and practices portrayed in popular culture, even when a student may not share those beliefs and practices. Also, students should be aware that their classmates come from a variety of religious backgrounds, including those who follow no religion, who are atheist, or agnostic. It is essential to be respectful of classmates' religious diversity in all aspects of course participation. Any student who finds that impossible is advised not to take this course.

Open Channels of Communication

The course instructor and other teaching staff are committed to maintaining open channels of communication regarding all students' academic concerns regarding the course and its materials. Students should understand, however, that course staff is not equipped to counsel them regarding personal religious issues.

Guidelines for Written Assignments:

The response paper, the midterm paper, and the final paper should each be submitted to the instructor on the due date in both hard copy and digital form. Late papers will be penalized by one-half grade for every day beyond the due date unless prior permission has been obtained from the instructor. Acceptable reasons for requesting an extension on paper deadlines include illness (accompanied by a note from student health services) or a death in the family. Assignments or tests in other courses, extramural appointments or interviews, or commitments to clubs or athletic teams do not constitute grounds for an extension. In no case will papers be accepted more than one week past the original deadline.

The papers should be double-spaced and written in 12-point font.

The papers should include these elements:

1. a distinct introduction setting out the paper's thesis;
2. well-organized paragraphs presenting evidence and arguments to support the thesis;
3. consideration of relevant counter-arguments;
4. a distinct conclusion summarizing the paper's findings;
5. a section for sources cited, in proper citation format.

The papers should use proper citations to refer to readings and films. Any of the standard citation styles (MLA, Chicago, etc.) is acceptable, provided it is used consistently. Students are also welcome to use bibliography software like Refworks, but be advised: the software makes errors, so do proofread your citations.

Collaborative Work: Except in cases approved in advance by course teaching staff, it is expected that all student written assignments will be composed solely by the student submitting the work. It is fine for students to discuss their ideas with classmates and others before the actual writing, but the writing itself should be done by the student alone.

Grading Rubrics for Written Assignments

Research Resources

A.) Sourcebooks and Encyclopedia

Students with an interest in the intellectual history of Asia may wish to read about particular figures or texts in more depth. See encyclopedia for an overview of a figure or topic. The sourcebooks, assembled by leading scholars, include biographical introductions to a wide range of authors and translations of important texts drawn from throughout history. The readings represent the range of religious traditions.

B.) Bibliography of Scholarship on Japanese Religions

The Nanzan Guide to Japanese Religions represents the state of the field of Japanese religions today. It includes essays and bibliographies on scholarly trends and problems organized thematically by topic (ancient religions, religion and law, Buddhism and gender, etc.). It also includes an exceptionally detailed timeline of the history of Japanese religions from ancient times to the present. Those who wish to pursue graduate study in Japanese religions should read this book. Note that the bibliographies here include sources in both English and Japanese.
